

(Read download) The Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets: Twenty-Five Centuries of Weaving

The Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets: Twenty-Five Centuries of Weaving

Abraham Levi Moheban

*ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC / audiobook

Download

Read Online

#1763463 in Books Princeton Architectural Pr 2015-12-15 2015-12-15 Original language: English PDF # 1
15.38 x 3.25 x 9.38l, .0 #File Name: 1616893877672 pages Princeton Architectural Pr | File size: 64.Mb

Abraham Levi Moheban : The Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets: Twenty-Five Centuries of Weaving before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets: Twenty-Five Centuries of Weaving:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Excellent color photos By Michael H. Kaplan A bargain with excellent color photos. Gives pricing informations up to 2015. Some of the text is superfluous such as describing the location in the world of China. Still informative and a must own for those of us who are collectors of oriental carpets. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great Read By Sara Jacobi Amazing read, truly phenomenal information on rug history and a great addition to anyone in the trade or art lovers who will be fascinated by the designs and how art has progressed through time and place. I enjoyed it immensely.

The Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets catalogs the diverse forms that the art and craft of the handwoven carpet has taken over twenty-five centuries, from the Far East to North Africa, from Europe to India, and within both hemispheres of the New World. The book features Classic Asiatic sources in the "Rug Belt"—Persia (Iran), Anatolia (Turkey), the Caucasus, China, India, and central Asia—and includes more than six hundred entries on all areas of historic carpet production, ranging from village to city and style to weaver. Each entry provides a photograph and information on the history, location, weaving period, technique, quality, design, coloration, size, and marketability of carpets produced around the world. This beautiful clothbound, two-volume boxed set is a comprehensive collection that is required reading for anyone with an eye on the antiques market or the cultural heritage of one of the oldest forms of artwork.

"...the Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets was filled with so much information, I could not put it down. Between looking up information on carpets I enjoy visually, to comparing the differences between styles, and learning about rug regions, it starts you on a journey of exploration from the comfort of your home." - Rug News Design "It's very appearance is impressive...After browsing through the work for the first time, you can only be impressed. The quality of the pictures, of which there are more than 1000, is very high, and with over 600 entries there's sure to be very little missing." - Carpet XL "Great antique rugs are more than just protection for your floor-they're timeless pieces of functional art. Five years in the making, The Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets is an extensive two-volume guide to the distinguishing features of the best of the best." - Architectural Digest "For carpet connoisseurs and textile enthusiasts at all levels, this authoritative manual is likely to have considerable influence on the antique rug market for years to come." - Choice "The Encyclopedia of Antique Carpets is a must for any antique lover's library." - Australian House Garden

About the Author Abraham Levi Moheban was the owner of an uptown New York City antique carpet gallery called Abraham Moheban Son, and has bought and sold to interior designers, architects, dealers, and collectors for over fifty years. He has traveled the world to acquire and study the industry. Moheban retired in 2005 and placed his inventory for auction in two separate sales at Bonhams Auctions in Los Angeles. Abraham Levi Moheban has served on the Board of Directors for the Oriental Rug Importers Association of America, and has been a member of the American Society of Interior Designers as well as other art and antiques leagues and organizations. Abraham Moheban rugs and carpets have been featured in Architectural Digest, Town Country, House and Garden and numerous other publications treasuring the home lifestyle. His carpet choices have also figured prominently in show house exhibitions all over the country.